Markets Are Ancient Institution Dating From Before the Revolution

STALLS FOR "UNION" MEN ONLY

But Rule Dates From Civil War Days and Applies to Men Who Were Northern Supporters

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

BALTIMORE, Md., June 5.—Baltimore has the marketing habit. There is no city in America that puts a big basket on its arm more regularly or more enthusiastically, to go forth and purchase its food in the public square. Few cities if any, on the other hand, have such markets to visit. Baltimore's markets are an institution—an institution picturesque and venerable and of a size and solidity that commands respectful attention. Lexington market for instance, is three squares long, with 1,200 stalls, and 50,000 people visit it on many Saturdays.

Sight of Town

The markets are one of the sights of the town, like St. Peter's in Rome or the White House in Washington. The visitor is taken forth to see them as he is taken to see the Falls at Niagara. The streets for blocks around take on a market-day atmosphere. Temporary stalls are set up on either side, until there is only a narrow lane left in the middle of the highway where the big cars nose their way a foot at a time. Countrymen and farmers draw up their wagon-loads of produce along the curb and wait philosophically for purchasers, scorning the practice of the recent immigrant who is wont to cry his wares. Candy-stands and flower-stands and peanut-stands appeal to the esthetic and the gastronomic functions of the olfactory nerve. The street faker is in his glory. Perched on a coffee-box, he extols the merits of a "miraculous" invention, ladies and gentlemen—a combination of the South American sapo tree, the East Indian senega root and the Mexican ammonia plant—a combination shaving-soap, shoe polish and complexion beautifier.

The market itself is housed under a long high roof, like the roof of a railroad terminal, subdivided into hundreds of little stalls. Everything which the human race is in the habit of chewing and swallowing finds its place somewhere. Beef and mutton, pork and veal and sausage and bacon, a string of fruits that would read like the invoice of a South American freighter, all the vegetables you have ever seen and a few new ones, nuts, bread and pastry, live poultry, candy—consult the supply lists of Herr Tortolowitz von Batoeki, the new German food dictator, for a partial list of what you can buy.

Mostly Women

All this space under the roof between the stalls is jammed with humanity, chiefly feminine. It takes an hour or so to push through the three blocks of Lexington market. The make-up of the crowd is surprisingly heterogeneous. It may be a mistake, but the visitor gets the impression that midday of Baltimore dons her silver fox set, steps into the limousine, sniffs the orchids in the holder, says, "The market, James," and sallies forth to buy a quarter's worth of wienersurst. At least, you see plenty of big cars discharging their inmates at the curb, and have your toes stepped on by ladies who resemble the illustrations in an R. W. Chambers novel.

As one Baltimore official puts it, "The market problem is one of educating the municipal consciousness up to the marketing conception," or in other words of teaching society to carry a basket. These big markets

TOWN MILL-DAM

Plunging over a mill dam in the heart of the village, Leslie Fandmeyer, aged 30, Viola, Wis., was drowned there Saturday night.

There were but few witnesses. Mr. Fandmeyer came down the river, failed to head the currents, the strength of which had been increased by the heavy rains, and was swept over the obstruction. The body has been recovered.

Fandmeyer leaves a widow and two small children.

PHILIPP UNDER KNIFE FOR APPENDICITIS AND CONDITION IS SERIOUS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 5.—Emanuel L. Philipp, governor of Wisconsin, underwent a very serious operation for appendicitis early today at Milwaukee hospital and although his condition is not critical, it is still serious, according to Dr. Harry Sifton, who performed the operation.

There were stony growths in the governor's appendix and also pus matter which indicated that he had been troubled for some time. These also made the operation a great deal more serious than was at first anticipated.

The governor is fleshy and this lessened his resistance power, according to the surgeon.

"Although we encountered more difficulty than we had expected, the operation was entirely successful," said Dr. Sifton.

The governor's daughter, Miss Florence Philipp, is a nurse at the hospital where he underwent the operation. Others at the hospital were his wife, a son, Cyrus; Miss Elizabeth McCarthy, secretary of the company of which the governor is president, and a friend, August C. Kurtz.

The governor was taken ill suddenly Sunday night. He came from Madison on Saturday to spend Sunday at home. Yesterday he delivered an address at the dedication of a working girls' home.

GOV. E. L. PHILIPP

Governor Philipp will be unable to attend the national convention in Chicago. He was to have headed the conservative republican delegation from Wisconsin. His place will be taken by George A. West who was chosen as his alternate.

Copenhagen Reports Indicate Losses in Ships' Destruction Must Have Been Nearly Total

CLAIM GERMAN LOSSES GREATER

British Say Teutons Lost 113,435 Tons with But 22,515 Admitted; British Lose 114,000 Tons

LONDON, June 5.—The hope of many English families, members of which were on the ships lost in the great Skagerak sea fight, that some of the men would be rescued, is being slowly crushed by the tales of awfulness brought in by vessels which have reached Copenhagen since the battle.

But with the crushing of this hope pride in the navy is growing hourly with the continued insistence of the British admiralty that the Germans lost far more heavily than they admitted.

"There seems to be the strongest ground for supposing that included in the German battle losses are two battleships, two dreadnoughts battle cruisers of the most powerful type, two of the latest light cruisers, the Wiesbaden and the Elbing; a light cruiser of the Rostock type, the light cruiser Frauenlob, nine destroyers and a submarine," the statement said.

(The Germans admit only the loss of the battleship Pommern, the cruisers Wiesbaden, Frauenlob and Elbing and six destroyers.)

Dispatches received in London from Copenhagen say many of the bodies of sailors lost in the sea fight have been washed up along the Jutland shore. Several of the sailors were rescued by Scandinavian steam-

THROW DUTY TO BRITISH ADMIRALTY

British Asked to Prove the German Losses Were Greater Than Reported by Berlin Office

BERLIN, June 5.—Great Britain's claim to victory in the naval fight of Wednesday is taken as an enormous joke by all Germany. The claim is not even accorded the dignity of serious attention. It does not arouse ire or resentment.

"Yes," grinned one official, "Great Britain won an enormous tactical victory. About two more such tactical victories and the British navy would be reduced to rowboats."

The Germans realize just the position Great Britain is in. For years and years they have been boasting of their peerless navy. Along came real land fighting and England did not take her full part, but always referred to its peerless navy—the unbeatable pride of the seas—which, when the moment came, would smash Germany forever. It was the navy which was "going to dig the rats out of their holes."

Then came the fight and when the smoke of battle cleared away, the pride of the British navy was at the bottom of the North Sea and the German fleet was riding safely at anchor in its home port, according to the German view.

The Germans say the British admiralty was almost forced to make false claims of German losses to prevent the shock of the worst naval drubbing of the war from proving too

Objects to Possible "Packing" of Madison Gathering When His Own Was Unquestionably "Framed"

RACINE, Wis., June 5.—(Special)—Editor W. S. Goodland has extended a further invitation to Former Governor F. E. McGovern to attend the progressive conference at Madison, June 22, in a letter which replies to many of the suggestions contained in the "refusal" letter of the former governor. Editor Goodland says that there is no intention on the part of any signer to violate the primary law and points to the fact that "your warm political friends, veterans in the service of the state and in the fight for primary elections, such as Hon. John Hicks, Senator A. W. Sanborn, William Maue and Judge D. O. Mahoney, have warmly endorsed the conference." Replying to the denunciation of the conference plan made by Governor McGovern, the Goodland letter says:

About Mac's Conference

"You denounce the proposed conference because you claim it is a convention, yet you base your own candidacy on what you please to call 'a conference of progressive republicans fairly representative.' This conference, as I am informed, was called together by letters and telephone and included only men who were known to be committed to you in advance, and a large number of whom were indebted to you because of appointment to position in the state service. There was no public notice of this conference and after a brief deliberation tendered you the nomination, which you accepted."

Mr. Goodland replies to the suggestion of the former governor that the convention may be packed by saying:

"You charge that such a conference may be packed, that it will lead to intrigue, treachery and fraud, yet you accept a nomination from a conference secretly called and unquestionably packed with your personal friends and followers and give it the stamp of your approval and justification. This may be consistency, but if it is it is a brand with which I confess I am not familiar."

The letter suggests that McGovern should have run for governor two years ago when it was his administration as governor under fire.

Berlin Reports German Attacks on Fort Repulsed; Spirited Attacks Elsewhere Continue

BERLIN, June 5.—The Germans launched several hot infantry attacks against Fort Vaux last night, employing liquid fire but despite this, the attacks were repulsed, says the official communiqué today. Elsewhere along the east line of the Meuse the fighting was heavy but the Germans were unable to gain a yard, the statement says.

All of the French counter-attacks have been repulsed with heavy losses to the French, according to the statement.

"German reconnoitering detachments entered enemy positions along the Yser north of Arras and east of Albert, taking nearly 100 unarmored prisoners. A mine thrower was also taken."

"On the east front and in the Balkans the situation is unchanged."

Continue Violent Assaults

PARIS, June 5.—The armies of the crown prince battling for Verdun continued violent assaults in the region of Dead Man's hill, Hill 304, Fort Douaumont and Fort Vaux, all Sunday, and were repulsed, official reports to the French war office say.

A German infantry attack late Sunday, according to the report, wrested some of the French line trenches from the holders in the region between Damloup and Fort Vaux. The invaders were quickly driven out by a fierce counter attack.

NORMALITES LEAVE
CONNOR CASE FOR FACULTY DECISION

Mass Meeting Which Was to Have Denounced Alleged Unpatriotic Student Changes Plan

CONNOR DENIES THE CHARGE

Issues Statement Today That Action Was Protest Against National Aids Being Used

Men students at the La Crosse normal school have decided to let the faculty deal with the case of George A. Connor, student from Waterbury, Neb., who refused to rise when the "Star Spangled Banner" is played in general assembly.

At the mass meeting of the men this morning the Connor case was discussed only informally.

There have been no attempts to repeat the rough treatment accorded Connor, who last week was thrust under a cold shower following his refusal to uncover to Old Glory.

Paul Schmidt and Adolph Eberding, other students whom it is alleged joined with Connors in his refusal to salute, are reported to have changed tactics and agreed to arise when the national anthem is played.

At the meeting this morning William Walker was chosen president of the Men's League. Other officers chosen are: David Lewis, vice president; Arthur Jones, secretary-treasurer; Loren Dressenvorsen and Leland Mahoney were named members of the executive committee.

Was Protest Against Militarism

A protest against militarism and the use of patriotic sentiments to further militaristic propaganda was the interpretation placed upon their refusal to rise by Connor, Schmidt and Eberding today. They vehemently denied any intention to insult the flag or anything but patriotic motives. In a lengthy statement, signed by the three, they declared the trouble due to an attempt by militarists who are members of the normal school to wreck the Socialist Study club. The statement, giving their version of the occurrence, follows:

"The statement has been spread broadcast by a few 'patriotic' students of the normal, that we have grossly insulted our country's flag; that George Connor, one of our number, has especially defied a patriotic convention." It is further stated that a movement is on foot at the normal to appoint a committee to "help Connor pack his trunk." The Saturday evening issue of THE TRIBUNE contained a front page article which reflects seriously upon the character of George Connor, and which is charged with misstatements of facts.

"In view of this energetic one-sided agitation by a few to force a brother-student from the school, it is but just and fair that we should be allowed to state our side of the matter, that the students and public generally may judge intelligently as to whether the flag has been insulted by us, and as to who are the real 'unpatriotic' trouble makers in our alma mater."

Only Snatches of Aids

"Thursday morning, June 1, a mock republican rally was held in the auditorium for purposes of putting forward the various republican candidates by speeches, demonstrations, songs, etc., who were to be represented in the educational mock convention to be held that evening."

"Support was enlisted for the various speakers by a great deal of patriotic phrasology, flag waving and singing of national airs. After each speaker the little band played parts of the different national airs in favor of the various candidates. After the representative for Ford made his speech, with the aid of much hooting and hissing, a church hymn was played. All this was carried out in

HUGHES TO WIN WITH

SAYS MR. HITCHCOCK

CHICAGO, June 5.—Justice Hughes' nomination "on an early ballot is inevitable," Frank Hitchcock, unofficial Hughes boomer, declared in a statement this afternoon.

Hitchcock's statement was the first giving a line on what he expects to develop; it went further than previous estimates, for it meant that the Hughesites are expecting better than 345 on the first ballot, with only 148 more required to swing things Hughes' way.

"Justice Hughes will receive more votes on the first ballot than the combined strength of the favorite sons candidates, and his nomination on an early ballot is inevitable," the announcement concluded.

"The maximum strength of the favorite sons states," the statement said, "is as follows:

"Delaware, 6 for Du Pont; Idaho, 8 for Borah; Illinois, 58 for Sherman; Indiana, 30 for Fairbanks; Iowa, 26 for Cummins; Massachusetts, 36 for Weeks; Ohio, 48 for Burton; Wisconsin, 25 for La Follette; total, 227.

"In the remaining states, Delegates are instructed for the favorite sons candidates as follows:

TO BE FIGHT IN CONVENTION

More Radical Progressives Are Determined to Force the Selection of Roosevelt

CHICAGO, June 5.—The progressive national committee today named what is practically a conference committee to consult with republicans upon a platform and a candidate. This committee—consisting of George W. Perkins, Governor Hiram Johnson of California, William Henry Childs of Brooklyn, and Horace Wilkinson, is to be known as the publicity committee.

BY H. L. RENNICK

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

CHICAGO, June 5.—The progressive national committee went into session today ready to make peace with the G. O. P., but not to "pay too high a price for harmony."

Declaring that as yet no conference had been arranged, nor any overtures made for agreement by the two parties on a candidate, George W. Perkins, bull moose chieftain, issued a statement outlining terms the progressives will consider.

Some political leaders interpreted Perkins' statement as a flat refusal to accept Hughes.

For Harmony—At Right Price

"I am for harmony between the two conventions meeting in Chicago this week," Perkins said. "I shall use every ounce of ability I have and every moment of my time night and day to bring it about, but not for one moment will I lose sight of the fact that you can pay too high a price for almost anything, and you certainly can pay too high a price for harmony."

"We could have had harmony with England in 1776 if we had paid the price. We could have had harmony in 1860, but we would have had no country as a result. We could have had no such glorious future as we had after both of these struggles. Now I, for one, am deeply imbued with the belief that we are facing just as momentous a struggle, with just as important questions to decide as in 1776 and 1860. These questions are internal and external. If we evade them, compromise or temporize with them, they will simply come back to plague us in the immediate future and come back with greater force and violence."

"This being my belief, I will not consent to any arrangement that is simply postponing the day of settlement."

Many Want T. R.

The more radical progressives today were still determined to force Roosevelt's nomination on the progressive convention. Perkins is said to be confident that the struggle in the convention would end amicably.

Indications of insurgency against Perkins' "harmony" popped out after the Washington state delegation of Moosers arrived. National committeeman Austin E. Griffiths of Seattle declared the progressives ought

WANT HIM FOR PREPARATION

Old Guard in a Quandary, Having Control, But Being Afraid to Use It

BY PERRY ARNOLD

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

CHICAGO, June 5.—By mid-afternoon the boom of Justice Hughes had achieved a commanding lead.

Progressive leaders privately admit a decided slump in the Roosevelt boom, but predict a revival later. The fact that Frank Hitchcock considered the chances of the chief justice good enough to warrant his dealing in actual figures was looked upon as significant.

Favorite sons sentiment and talk of dark horse possibilities was at low ebb this afternoon. It was generally conceded that the fight had narrowed down to Hughes and Roosevelt. For the moment the advantage was admittedly with the justice, but the political resourcefulness of T. R. combined with the unwillingness of Hughes to assume aggressive forestalled any chance of the Hughes boom taking on the earmarks of a certainty.

The Old Guard made a definite proffer to the progressive. Secure in its own belief that it can control the votes of a majority of the delegates, the dominant forces of republicanism want Hughes. But they only want Hughes in case they are satisfied he can be a winner. Therefore their preliminary feeler to the progressives was to ascertain whether an agreement could not be possible with Mr. Hughes, as a candidate, running on any sort of a platform which the progressives might require.

G. O. P. Will Follow Lead

The scheme fostered by the Old Guard was to have the progressives meet Wednesday and not later than Thursday night, to nominate Hughes. Then by Friday Saturday, the republican convention would choose the same standard bearer. The progressives could very well point with pride to the fact that by their action in naming Hughes, they had forced the G. O. P. into selecting the same leader.

The progressive leaders, who have been awaiting some sort of an olive branch suggestion, made it known today they were first for Roosevelt—and only for Hughes if some sort of a "satisfactory" statement of principles could be extracted from the justice. Failing that, they flouted the Big Stick of a third ticket.

There appeared very little doubt today that Hughes can be nominated if the Big Three—Penrose, Barnes and Crane—says so. But the Big Three does not want to say so until they can be assured of a united party behind Hughes. They do not think Roosevelt or any of the "favorite sons" can defeat Wilson, without progressive support. In other words, the Old Guard was in the anomalous position of having control, but not knowing what to do with the control.

T. R. to Retire?

One counter-suggestion advanced by the uncompromising progressive group was for the republicans to nominate Hughes and the progressives Roosevelt. Then, if the acceptance statement by Hughes sufficiently supports the Rooseveltian brand of preparedness and Americanism, it is figured Colonel Roosevelt will withdraw acceptance of the progressive nomination and throw support to the justice. It was pointed out today that the colonel has all along maintained that he was fighting for a certain set of principles, that in his St. Louis speech, for instance, he said, he accepted support solely declaring that his support came through approval of principles for which he stood, and not necessarily approval of him personally.

Practically all leaders—republicans and progressive—have about given up hope of penetrating Justice Hughes' silence before the balloting. It developed today that the Fair-

Mr. Carl Tesley said today he had heard none of the details of his brother's act. Neither he nor his brother, Andrew, have decided where the body will be interred.

HUGHES RESTRAINED EVEN IN DELIVERY OF COURT OPINIONS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Justice Hughes continued today to be 1916 sphynx. He did not break his iron-bound rule of "nothing to say" and what he said affected only a few persons whose cases in the supreme court fell to Hughes to decide. Today was Hughes' last "decision day" before the republican convention names a candidate—unless the candidate naming runs over into next week. Frequenters of the supreme court on "Decision day," however, claimed to see a change in the Hughes attitude of judicial calm over his attitude of some months back. Ordinarily given a vigorous delivery of his opinions, using his hands in emphatic gestures, Justice Hughes was today more restrained. Perhaps it was the unimportance of the cases that accounted for his lack of vigor. He smiled frequently as he read but never once did he grow enthusiastic as is his wont when cases touch vital issues.

THREE CHILDREN MEET DEATH IN CAVING SAND PIT

TOMAH, Wis., June 5.—(Special)—Three children of John Metzdorf, a farmer of Clifton, near here, were buried alive and smothered in a sand pit on their father's farm Friday afternoon. The bodies of the children, a boy of ten years, a girl of six and a boy of three years, were not recovered until midnight. It is presumed that they were caught in the sand at about 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The children were playing about the yard when suddenly they ran off together. Mrs. Metzdorf had prepared supper, and called the children. They did not appear. Members of the family searched the woods near the Metzdorf home, where the children's shoes were found. Neighbors in the vicinity were telephoned with no avail. Then a searching party was organized. William Tremaine, a neighbor, directed the search later in the evening towards a sand pit on the place. It was found that a portion of it had caved in, and the party dug until one of the small bodies was recovered. It became evident upon finding the body of the older boy that he had fought frantically to release himself and his small brother and sister. The bodies were not recovered until near midnight. The Metzdorf's have two other children.

CHICAGO, June 5.—"System as an index to what this convention is going to do, seems to have fallen flat," says John Eversman of Washington, secretary of the republican congressional committee. "There never was a convention on which such complete 'efficiency methods' were used to determine who the candidate would be, and never one in which more elements of uncertainty existed. Every delegate to the convention has been indexed and cross indexed and indexed again, all without being able to determine anything more than 'possibilities'." The more optimistic delegates, who believe harmony is in the air and that this week is to see the healing of all old sores and a reunited G. O. P., declare that such a happy event would bring the most striking demonstration of paternal forgiveness and the return of the prodigal in political history. An ardent Roosevelt supporter and former cabinet member, who does not wish to be quoted lest he frighten away the dove of peace, said today that should the republicans nominate a man on whom the progressives can also unite the progressives would rise en masse and march into the Coliseum to renew allegiance to the G. O. P. and its candidate. But—and this proviso was very specific—the only candidate whose selection can win approval and inspire this demonstration would be Roosevelt.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

Jack Tells The Bedtime Story Himself.

Santy's Pack Held All Kinds of Toys.

DADDY sat down in his armchair, but the children went out in the hall to talk. When they came in Jack said, "Daddy, it seems best for me to tell the bedtime story tonight."

"All right," said daddy, settling down comfortably with Evelyn. "We both like that." So Jack began: "Once upon a time there was a little boy and his sister, who went downtown to see Santa Claus and his reindeers. There was a great big Santy all covered with snow and with a great big pack on his back and two reindeers riding right through the store. And out of Santy's pack stuck all sorts of toys and games—a truly railroad, and a real telephone, and lots of dolls for the little boy's sister, and some soldiers all dressed in red suits with tiny guns over their shoulders, and some more dolls, and lots of sleds, and two hockey sticks, and a mud turtle that crawled."

"His little sister wanted the doll which cried!" Evelyn hinted.

"—and then came lots and lots of shelves all bulged with more toys," Jack went on, "with heaps and heaps of jolly picture books all about Indians and things. Some had pictures of funny animals, and some looked like poetry, and all had wonderful pictures."

"How could they be picture books 'less they had pictures?" cried Evelyn.

"Then came boy scout suits and Indian suits with real feathers and a tommyhawk and more railroads and lots of dolls. Finally came a Christmas tree all dressy with shiny balls and twinkly snow, with another truly Santa Claus piling, oh, heaps of things and things by the bottom of the tree. So that by and by the little boy and his sister, their heads just felt swimmy with so many Christmas presents, and they almost wanted to come home without picking out their own things!" Jack stopped, breathless.

Then he put his arms around his daddy's neck. "Say, daddy, honest and true, will that Santa Claus come to our house, do you think?"

"I'm sure he will!" cried daddy. "In fact, I'll speak to him about it."

But Jack looked doubtful and went on, "Next came a great big post box with a notice on it which spelled that every little boy and girl which was there must put his name on a ticket and where he lives and what he wants, so Santa Claus will know 'actly what he wants for Christmas without any horrid mistakes about it."

"And did the little boy and the little girl put their names in the great big post box?" daddy wanted to know.

"Yes!" Jack confessed. "But, say, daddy, I should feel safer 'bout it if I told you I want a pair of skates!"

The Searchlight

LARGEST TUNNEL IN AMERICA

The tunnel passing through the Selkirk Mountains in British Columbia has been excavated by a unique method which greatly shortened the time consumed. The new method is known as the "pioneer" heading or bore. This bore was made nearly parallel with the line of the main tunnel. Cross cuts made from it to the main tunnel at intervals of 1,500 feet, permitted driving the main tunnel from a number of headways instead of from the two ends as is the usual method. This tunnel is expected to be complete in September. It is 26,400 feet long, and will cost about $12,000,000. It will be the longest tunnel in America.

All Dependent on Will.

Nothing is impossible; there are ways which lead to everything; and if we had sufficient will we should always have sufficient means.—La Rochefoucauld.

"SENATORIAL COURTESY"

"Senatorial courtesy" sounds like a fine old phrase. It suggests the picture of a dignified band of courtly elder statesmen debating in a fine spirit of mutual consideration the weighty problems of a nation's governance. It is an inspiring picture—but it has nothing to do with the facts.

What is the reality? Months ago President Wilson sent to the senate for confirmation the appointment of George Rublee, of New Hampshire, as a member of the newly created Federal Trade Commission.

It is conceivable that there may be in the United States a man better fitted for this post than Mr. Rublee—but we do not know who he is. He had made an elaborate and painstaking study of the functions that the trade commission would be called upon to perform. He is precisely the man that any executive called upon to select the members of such a body ought to be overjoyed to find.

President Wilson appointed him, and the senate, after months of delay, refused to confirm the appointment. On what conceivable ground? Because, forsooth, he is "personally obnoxious" to Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire. No one contends that he is an unfit person for such an important position; no one suggests that he would not make an admirable trade commissioner.

Simply and brutally, Senator Gallinger does not like Mr. Rublee because he opposed the senator's re-election to the senate. "Senatorial courtesy" does the rest. A majority of the senate have upheld Senator Gallinger's right to punish thus a political opponent. The president of the United States must have an appointment flung back in his face, the people of the United States must be deprived of the services of the best qualified man for the place, in order to feed fat a single senator's ancient grudge.

This is mere puny spitefulness on the part of the senior senator from New Hampshire. It displays "senatorial courtesy" as a contemptible system.—The Independent.

There is something quite as contemptible in the senate's complicity in the above described affair as there is in one senator's indulgence in petty vengeance to punish a personal enemy. However, great as may have been the desirability of Mr. Rublee's confirmation, the defeat of any citizen for office is not the worst crime of "senatorial courtesy". To let one senator defeat an appointment coming out of his own constituency is indeed vicious. Still more vicious is the thing raised in the Brandeis case, which may be translated into the precedent that whom the trusts traduce shall not sit in the people's courts. But probably more far-reaching in its depravity than either of these is that accommodating variety of "senatorial courtesy" in the practice of which senators trade votes on their private bills. Thus everybody gets a piece of pork and the treasury is looted.

WHY NOT MARCH TO THE BARRACKS

Two hundred thousand people marched through the streets of Chicago in a great "preparedness" parade. They were addressed by the governor of Illinois, who told them something.

Governor Dunne told the marchers that for weeks the state of Illinois has been pounding away in a campaign to bring the state's national guard membership up to 21,000, and he said that the 200,000 men in the "preparedness" parade could help create "preparedness" best by joining the militia.

In New York, where the national guard is not recruited to the peace strength, 500,000 people marched in a "preparedness" parade, and what Governor Dunne said in Illinois is equally applicable in the Empire state. The situation goes to show that the makers of demonstrations conceive a preparedness in which certain people shall make guns for other people to fight with.

Suppose Uncle Sam were to announce that every "preparedness" marcher would be drafted for the first army list in case of war—how long would be the processions?

"So long, Marv."

INDIAN SCOUTS DEFEAT BAND OF VILLA BANDITS

AMERICAN FIELD HEADQUARTERS, Near Namiquipa, Mexico, June 2, via Wireless to Columbus, N. M., June 5.—The twenty Apache Indian scouts from Arizona routed a Villista band near Las Varas pass Friday, killed the bandits' leader and wounded another Villista. The Indians' command by Lieutenant James Shannon of the Eleventh United States cavalry, suffered no casualties.

The Apache scouts, led by Chief Jesus Velasquez, were on the trail of the bandits for a week, according to Shannon's report received at field headquarters here. The scene of the fight is forty miles south of Namiquipa. Another American cavalry detachment has found a Villista cache of 100 rifles in a mountain cave fourteen miles south of headquarters here. A former bandit revealed the location.

It is no harm for a man to take himself seriously unless he loses patience with his friends for not doing the same.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

On Preparedness

President John Grier Hibben of Princeton was talking at a luncheon about preparedness.

"Preparedness is our duty," he said. "If we don't prepare we will find ourselves in fearful trouble. The man who in these cyclonic times opposes preparedness is apt to get the worst of it, like Jones."

"Jones, a fat, steady-going clerk, had worked for the same firm seventeen years. A new hand, a nervous young fellow, complained to him one day:

"I've been here six months now, and it's time I had a raise."

"Oh, keep your hair on," said Jones. "I was here two years before I got my first raise. Just plug patiently, my boy—that's the way to get on. By the way, what is your salary anyhow?"

"Only $20," said the younger man. "Holy smoke!" roared Jones. "And mine is $15."—Washington Star.

Charged Too Much for Gas

A man who was seized by violent toothache did not succumb any too readily to the gas administered by the dentist, but in the course of time he was sleeping peacefully, and the offending molar was removed.

"How much?" asked the patient after the ordeal was over.

"Ten shillings," said the dentist.

"Ten shillings!" the main exclaimed.

"Yes, sir," said the dentist. "It was an unusually hard job getting that tooth out, and you required twice the ordinary amount of gas."

"Well, here's the money," said the patient. "But mind this—the next time I take gas in your place I'll want to look at the meter."

Particular

The vicar of a certain parish stopped an aged parishioner and congratulated him on his approaching marriage.

"I am sorry," he added, "that a prior engagement will prevent me from performing the ceremony on Tuesday, but no doubt my curate will do just as well."

"Oh, nowt o' t' sort!" ejaculated the old fellow. "That be 'anged for a tale! Mebbe, now, ye'd be at liberty on Wednesday?"

"Well," was the reply, "I certainly shall be free on Wednesday, but—"

"Then Wednesday it is," went on the prospective bridegroom. "Just mak' a note on it, parson."

"But surely," protested the vicar, "you'll never postpone the wedding for twenty-four hours—"

"Aw'd postpone it for twenty-four year if necessary," came the firm reply. "You've allus done this job for me an' you allus will as long as Aw live."

Then the vicar remembered that the old fellow had been three times previously married.

Economical

"Isn't it a good thing the government is stopping the imports of luxuries?" said one lady at the Red Cross meeting.

"Well, I'm married," replied another worker, "and my husband is over military age; but if they are going to cut down his tobacco and newspapers I sincerely hope he'll go to the war."

(By Nicksah)

CHARLES ISLAND

Charles Island is one of the curious little Galapagos group that lies in the western Pacific almost exactly on the equator. The whole of the archipelago is an interesting field for the traveler to visit and explore, but Charles Island is the most interesting of all. It is uninhabited to-day; every attempt to colonize it has ended in death and disaster, as though some strange fatality hung over the pleasant little rock. It is a mausoleum of dead romance, and the ghosts of its victims must certainly haunt it still, if there are ghosts haunting any place. Charles Island offers ideal attractions to ghosts.

The oldest inhabitants of all are still there—the gigantic tortoises from which the whole group takes its name, and which are found only here and on one other island in all seas. Besides this philosophic creature who attains a fabulous age and an immense size, there are several varieties of domestic animals running wild on Charles Island. Here you may shoot wild cattle as westerns used to be shot on the buffalo plains. There are wild donkeys, wild pigs, and wild dogs, all the descendants of beasts brought by unsuccessful colonists.

One of the most interesting instances of wits matched against wits to be seen in the animal kingdom arises when a pack of the native dogs try conclusions with a tortoise. The tortoise is not built for aggressive warfare, but he is splendidly equipped for home defense with a shell impenetrably thick. When the dogs assail him, he withdraws head and legs into his shell and adopts a policy of watchful waiting. After his patience is exhausted he cautiously pokes one foot out; if the dogs are still there they attempt to seize it. If the pack can get hold on all of the tortoise's extremities they win the game and an aldermanic dinner; but their antagonist usually outwears their patience. A brute who lives four or five centuries does not mind spending a day or two in his shell.

"It is late for you, my good Doctor," he began casually, as if nothing at all had happened in the last thirty hours.

"And most late for you to sit up—and alone, my good Baron," I answered.

"Alone? Not at all." He motioned to the low table by his chair and I saw an array of bottles and a hapless cake of ice melting in the midnight semitropical warmth. "Here sit I and the excellent beer. It is a treat, I assure you. Allesandro brought a case and the ice from some La Fourche camp. Your glass, Doctor. I awaited you patiently. Beer I have sat and chased the pulsing universe down to a pin-hole, looked at it clearly and extended my congratulations to the Almighty. It is not a bad job for presumably His first attempt at creation. I am not altogether displeased, though He might have dispensed with the mosquitoes. I had my fling at it, my good Doctor." He chuckled out of his prodigious depths. "I thought it all over tonight—the great past of it, and what must come. I slapped the map of Europe together in half a dozen combinations; I put kings up here, and dynasties down there, and ran races over races and clasp trap republics to the junk-heap. Eh, the mind I have—if I but had legs to match it! Napoleon was a dolt beside me."

"By the bottles here, and empty, I must say you undoubtedly scourged half the world."

"Ah, you have it! Nine, Doctor—and he who can't build his empire on nine beers will never do it on more." He pulled on his pipe again until the bowl of it lighted half his shack. He sighed. "And now I sit at the edge of our isle and quarrel with you Yankees over a ditch of mud. Still, the great soul must have its quarrel—life would dry up for me overnight if I had nothing to scheme against—no cause to espouse, no sentiment to cherish, no love to exalt. Your infernal dredge is over-muddy for a clean man to combat, but it is better than drooling away in a chimney corner."

"You made an excellent mess of your warfare last night, my dear Baron. To set your thieving blacks to fire the marsh while we were at your party was not Napoleonic."

He grinned with the humor of a gargoyle under his great brows.

"I have had my first quarrel with my marquise over that."

"She did not know, then?"

"The devil—no! That is—what the consequence might have been. You observe how she fled to stop it when she found your men were bound to walk into the pit of hell. Still, confound her conscience, we would have burned you out, if she had not had the wit to blow up your powder boat prematurely. To save their hides—that's the woman of it!"

"You confess to it easily," I murmured, wiping his beer from my mustache.

"To you, my dear Doctor. You are an arbiter as it were. A man of honor, of delicacy—even of chivalry."

"U-um," I murmured, and began casually to estimate just how deep I had gone, the last three months, as a stockholder into Virgil's Isle Bonne swamp lands company which this unsuspecting old cock would ruin if he could. Let him hang himself if he will, I thought; and then put a question to him abruptly.

"My dear Baron, why do you so fear the discovery of that ancient wreck of a schooner lying there in the edge of the deep swamp?"

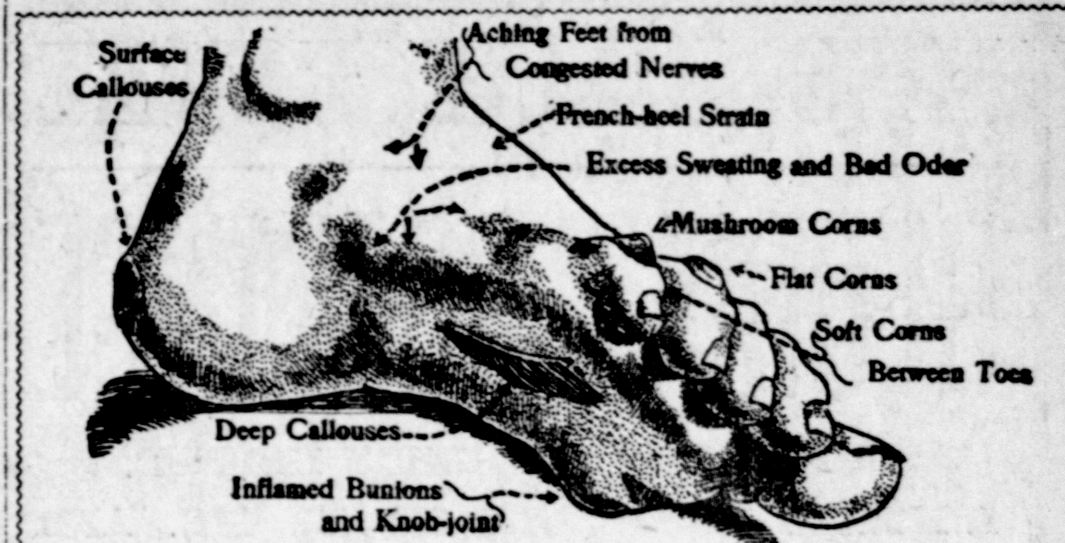

He started with equal abruptness. "Of course, I went on indifferently, as if I knew all about it and cared less. It's interesting as a relic, to our young friend of Isle Bonne—his sunken slave runner of her great grand-uncle, Armand. Undoubtedly, you ought to dig it out; but why this secrecy? Mr. Williams, I assure you, would let your black men pump the hulk dry while his dredge worked peacefully past it. He has a mind that considers little back of last year's hurricane. And if it's really a piratical hulk of Lafitte's day, and you expect to find treasure, as all the cajuns do—good! Mr. Williams would pronounce it very interesting, but he wouldn't stop his dredge even to cast an eye at it."

The old fellow nudged forward in his chair and tapped me with his pipe bowl. "He might well. There is a possibility," then his brows contracted; his old eyes shone; his usual fat grimace came: "Well, let the fool dig—he's wasting an amazing amount of some one's money."

"Just what," I retorted, "do you mean?"

"But the Baron John waddled up and away in his red robe, stopping however—although it was now two in the morning—to wind his execrable phonograph so that it was now bawling out La Favorita on the peaceful air. Once in bed he kept the time with his pipe as usual."

I retired quite disgusted at his utter frankness about his criminal schemes. He took me for granted. He was ever irritatingly sure of himself like an excellent card-player who can play fair and win, or nonchalantly stack the cards and lose, but fair or foul, remain equally

NEWS NOTES MOVIELAND

William S. Hart, the Triangle star, recently completed work on a new feature in which 121 Sioux Indians appear in his support. The title of the play is "The Apostle of Vengeance," and in it Hart plays the part of the half-breed.

He spent many days about the studio trying out various styles of make-up before he was satisfied that he had struck the right one, and then he started with camera men and the Indians up to Mount Baldy, where most of the work was accomplished.

Hart's make-up was so accurate that it became the leading topic of the day in the coast studios. Then someone noticed that among the Indians there was one brave, Harry Lane Bear, who strongly resembled Hart, as Hart had made-up.

The curious part of it was that Hart had not tried to make-up for any particular Indian, but rather as a composite. He was as much interested in the discovery as any. "I'm glad to know this," he remarked, "because if anything should happen, I'd have an understudy worth while."

Alice Joyce In Pictures Again

Announcement is made by Vitagraph that the famous screen star, Alice Joyce, has signed with the company.

Since Miss Joyce's statement a few weeks ago, announcing her intention of returning to the screen, after a year of private life, much interest has surrounded her, and those who have watched her excellent work on the screen for years will welcome her return.

Vitagraph states that this famous player will be starred in the leading female role of its new film masterpiece, "The Battle Cry of War," which is a sequel to the world-renowned "Battle Cry of Peace."

This role will afford Miss Joyce excellent opportunities in which to display the talents which endeared her to the public before her retirement.

composed, knowing that he has the odds against you in the end.

I promised myself that I would clear out of his lodge this week. The listening to all this posing and boasting, and then knowing the grim battle our fellows were having to keep the dredge at work, was getting on my nerves. I hadn't taken the baron's feud seriously before, and as for Papa Prosper's case in court against the transfer of Isle Bonne by the French heirs, why there was no chance for us to lose. It was hanging on to Virgil's option on the swamp beyond that was racking us all; to make it good he must complete his dredge contract.

But the next morning a deal of this resolve had gone. Laure of Isle Bonne had come over, as usual, bringing the greater part of that old scoundrel's breakfast. When his man Friday was absent, our saint of the woods was much taken with looking after the baron's household. She was rather distrustful this morning and greeted me with a pallid composure that led me to think she was not over her unnerving shock of two nights ago. There was a wound against her throat where bits of the debris from Virgil's dynamite boat had struck her. She smiled over the baron's coffee. The old fellow was rather morose; I gathered that his beer had been a trifle green. When I happened to mention casually, that Williams had gone to the city they both started curiously.

"Then who is there?" asked Laure abruptly.

"Mr. Redfield and the cook," I answered. "And I shall keep him company."

They looked significantly at each other. Perhaps I had been a guest quite long enough. But it was not of that Laure was thinking.

I came upon her out on the platform looking off at the canal leading westward from the cave in the forest. One could make out a thin trail of smoke from the dredge stacks two miles away over the shimmer of marsh. And her study suddenly provoked me to boldness; it was always the most effective with our small enemy to startle her off her guard.

"See here, mademoiselle," I began, "ever since I told you my friend was alone there, you have seemed in a mood. Now, I warn you not to attempt any advantage of that."

She laughed outright; the first of that moody morning. "I, messieur? For what should I harm that kind

YEOMEN EVENTS

Yeomen hall was well filled with members Friday evening to witness the initiation of a large class of candidates headed by Ray Keeler, district manager of the M. W. A. The work was put on by the regular drill team and was amplified with tableaux and stereopticon slides. A quartette composed of the Misses Helen Dittman, Julia Cordell, Villa Jury and Lulu Wachsmuth sang several songs during the initiation, and Miss Villa Jury rendered, in a pleasing manner, "The Holy City." After the initiation Mayor Bentley gave a splendid talk on Yeomanry, which was followed by an exhibition drill by the Eagles' team, which elicited rounds of applause from the Yeomen and the large crowd of spectators admitted after the meeting. The juvenile drill team won all hearts with their drill work, executing the most intricate maneuvers without the slightest hesitation. After the program dancing was indulged in until midnight. The hall was prettily decorated with ferns and wild flowers.

Arrangements have been made by the ladies' degree team for a moonlight excursion on the steamer Sidney, June 28.

H. A. Lee left today for a trip through the state to assist in organizing homesteads or large class adoptions in various places.

Suffragettes Open Attack On Members Of All Three Parties

By Concerted Attack Women Hope to Secure Insertion of Suffrage Plank in Democratic, Republican and Progressive Platforms

Program of the Woman's Party convention Chicago, June 5, 6 and 7:

Monday, June 5—Meeting of Credentials committee, 9 a. m. Registration of delegates, Blackstone Theater, 10 a. m. Convention called to order, Blackstone Theater, 2 p. m. Reception to delegates, 8 p. m.

Tuesday, June 6—Conferences of committees on resolution, platform, etc., Blackstone Theater, 10 a. m. Convention session, 2 p. m. Convention session, 8 p. m.

Wednesday, June 7—Luncheon, Auditorium Hotel, 12 o'clock. Mass meeting, Blackstone Theater, 8 p. m.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Suffragettes "manned" the trenches today for a concerted attack on the republicans, democrats and progressives, in the hope of whipping the whole bunch into submission.

Two suffrage organizations opened conventions to accomplish the same end by different means. The National Woman's party met at the Blackstone theater, determined to launch a fourth party. The National American Woman's suffrage association met at the Princess theater to draft resolutions, in the hope of securing by peaceful means, adoption of a suffrage plank by the three parties.

The Woman's party, headed by Miss Alice Paul, was militantly inclined today. The National Suffrage association, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, was determined, but inclined more to persuasion than force.

Preliminaries only were to be considered by the militant organization today. A reception this afternoon was expected to bring both factions of the suffragettes together for conferences.

Approximately 25,000 women, it was announced today, will march in the suffrage parade Wednesday, as a demonstration of strength staged before delegates to the republican and progressive conventions.

"Votes for Women" Being Decided Today in Iowa

DES MOINES, Ia., June 5.—"Votes for women" is dividing attention at the polls in Iowa today with the hot fight among republicans for the gubernatorial nomination, and in many localities suffrage has the call on popular interest.

Although it is a primary election, the last legislature, for the second time, passed the suffrage amendment for a vote on suffrage today, and if the women win, they will have a chance to cast their ballots for the presidential nominee next November, as well as for state and county officers.

Today's battle is the climax of a long fight for equal rights. In 1882 the suffrage amendment passed the legislature but failed in the next session.

Speaking campaigns, automobile tours and all the demonstrations known to the professional politician have been used. Suffrage leaders are confident today that the wires will flash a victory for them tonight. Western suffrage states particularly have backed the Iowa campaign with cash and speakers.

BURGLARY NETS $60 AT DAKOTA

Burglars last night entered the Donehower general store at Dakota, Minn., broke open a cash register, secured $60 in silver, helped themselves to a box of expensive cigars and disappeared.

Today the local police were called upon to assist the Dakota marshal in his search. Sheriff Parr of Winona, Minn., is also "on the job."

High School Job Finding Bureau Proves Its Worth

Boys and Girls Earn $1,000 Through Work Found Them by Employment Bureau of High School

"Something over $1,000!"

"Yes—Little drops of water, little grains of sand—you know the rest. The boys and girls of the La Crosse high school who have been sent out by the employment bureau prove the truth expressed in those lines. Since the beginning of the school year in September, 1915, they have earned a little more than $1,000. The amount seems all the greater when we know that a large part of it was earned in as small amounts as 15 cents. Boys and girls have contributed about equally to this figure, earning approximately $500 each. The largest amount earned by a girl was $101.50; by a boy, $90.

Waiters and Clerks

This money has been earned in various ways. The girls have done housework, attended children, helped with special table service, clerked during the opening days of the Woolworth store, and worked during the spring vacation for the Salzer Seed company; the boys have attended furnaces, storm windows, lawns, and walks, painted and set screens, cleaned and painted porch floors, done odd jobs in cement work, built fences, bailed hay, spaded and planted gardens, delivered telegrams and gifts, worked in a machine shop and in a drug store, and done many other kinds of work.

The work done by these students by no means represents all work done and all money earned by the students of the high school. This money is but a minor part of the total amount earned. Many other boys and girls are working who have not been placed by the bureau; many who were first sent out by the bureau have become independent of its assistance and now are working at jobs which they themselves have found. Therefore, the bureau must not be charged with discouraging initiative among the students. It could not do so if it would, for it doesn't have enough calls to meet the demand for jobs; so boys and girls themselves look for work.

However, the bureau does have a reason for being: It helps many students to find the odd job, and it sometimes succeeds in getting together the right student and the right job. Many of our towns people have found the bureau useful when there was a walk to clean, when a load of kindling was dumped in the yard, when gardens needed spading, when the baby had to be left while the mother shopped or when company came to stay a week. It was comparatively easy to get help because they knew about the bureau. The students have found the bureau useful when they wanted to get some new clothes or when they needed money that they could not or would not ask from their parents.

Knows the Boy

Mrs. A. must have a boy who has a bicycle to deliver some packages within the next hour; the bureau knows of such a boy. The store must have a boy who knows a certain foreign language; the bureau sends such a boy. The owner of an automobile needs a driver who will tend his lawn and drive his car; the bureau knows of the right boy. A drug store wants a boy who is interested in the drug business; the bureau knows of a boy who is anxious to do just that kind of apprentice work, for he is planning to attend a school of pharmacy when he graduates from the high school. A machine shop needs a boy who understands something about his machines and tools; the bureau finds such a boy through help of the school's manual training teachers. The mother wants a girl whose school work is finished early in the afternoon to stay with her children on certain days; the bureau finds for her such a girl. Thus the right student and the right job are often brought together.

Now the summer's vacation is near and greater opportunity for work presents itself. The students will have more time; the towns people and neighboring farmers, it is hoped, will have more work. Some calls have already come, many more are needed. For one call for a boy the bureau averages about six applicants.

Girls Are Scarcity

It does not have the same trouble with the girl applicants. Many calls for girls have not been filled because there are fewer girls registered with the bureau. However, many girls who want to tend children and do light work about the house are looking for places. Call 395-A during school hours, and 1466-A at other times.

Many of the alumni of the La Crosse high school, with whose association the employment bureau originated and by which it was supported during the first months of its existence, have been mindful of its boys and girls. We hope that a larger number will remember their successors in the old school when they have work to be done.

PUBLIC MARKETS BIG INSTITUTION IN BALTIMORE

are really a kind of fruit and vegetable department store and the department store of course is firmly established as a permanent correct hunting ground for all ranks of femininity. Baltimore women make appointments to meet at a certain stall at a certain hour and go to lunch together. It is not a matter of record, but it seems probable that they occasionally stop to buy a dozen eggs on the way to the opera.

Is Pioneer

The question of public markets is coming in for a great deal of serious attention all over the country today, as a possible means of solving certain phases of the distribution problem. Busy markets have been established in a score of cities, but Baltimore is by way of being a pioneer in the field and her experience should be valuable. In the hundred and fifty years that markets have been a feature of the landscape, the city has encountered most of the problems that can arise in connection with markets. Back in the year 1751, when there were only two dozen houses in the town, the citizens decided to start a market, and conducted a lottery as a means of raising the necessary cash. Lotteries were a highly respectable institution in those days. The private ledger of George Washington occasionally charges the price of a few lottery tickets to profit and loss.

Markets Came First

The age of the system in Baltimore has had the effect of obviating certain objections that arise in cities where it is introduced later in municipal progress. For instance, it is something of a problem to reconcile the rights of the retail grocer with the activities of the stall keeper. The grocer is a tax-payer, a rent payer, and an employer of labor, while the market stall pays no taxes, very little rent, and is usually operated by the proprietor, who thus becomes something of a favored competitor. In Baltimore, however, the markets came before the grocery stores, and the grocers had the competition to reckon on when they entered the business. In actual practice, the neighborhood of the markets has proved a favorable location for ordinary retail shops of all sorts on account of the crowds drawn. Some of the local grocers go farther, and rent and operate stalls on market days.

Baltimore markets — there are eleven of them — are municipal institutions. They can easily be operated at a profit, not only by the rental of stalls, but by renting the big halls that some of the buildings contain. Over Center market for instance, a half million dollar structure, there are two halls used for night classes which seat 1,200 pupils, and a third hall with a capacity of 2,500. The profits from this part of the markets used to be much larger than they are today, in the times before regular theater buildings became so numerous, but they still have great possibilities. Moved by this consideration, a private company recently offered to take over one of the markets, pay a half million dollar site, put up a half million dollar structure as well as a huge department store. The people of Baltimore, however, rose up in defense of their ancestral institutions with such a storm of protest that the offer was refused.

The stringent market regulations have been evolved through years of operation. Back in the records you will even find an obsolete rule that no stall is to be rented to "anyone who is not thoroughly and unconditionally a union man." The reference is not to the I. W. O. or the American Federation of Labor. That ruling was written back in the sixties, when the feeling between north and south ran high. The Baltimore markets had a system of pure-food regulations long before the bureau of chemistry appeared on the scene. Controversies raged over the activities of the side-walk vendor in his relation to the regular merchant. This was settled by confining the operation of side-walk stalls to market days, and the weeks before Christmas and Easter. Street vendors are not allowed to sell fish or crabs within five blocks of the market. A body of regulations has grown up around the system that makes an imposing mass of law and ordinance.

The respective rights of the city and the renter were fought clear up to a Maryland court, which held that the renting of a stall was strictly analogous to the renting of a pew in a church, and conferred similar limited rights only. The practice of subletting was upheld however. For a time the stall privileges for a term of years was sold at auction, netting enough money to build the markets with. Buyers would sometimes sublet at a rate that brought them 10 per cent on their investment. The general opinion seems to be that stalls in a municipal market should

PARDEVILLE MAN KILLED BY TRAIN NEAR MAUSTON

Body of James Garfield Stewart Mangled by Freight Train; Walking to Maiden Rock

MAUSTON, Wis., June 5.—(Special).—With both legs and one arm completely severed the body of James Garfield Stewart, 35, blacksmith of Pardeville, Wis., was found four miles east of here yesterday morning on the tracks of the Milwaukee railroad. It is presumed that he was struck by a freight train. Stewart is said to have been walking to Maiden Rock in company with another man from Pardeville. The particulars of the accident are not known as Stewart's companion has not appeared since.

Stewart's father and a brother arrived here yesterday afternoon and identified the body. It will be taken to Pardeville this afternoon.

U. S. RESERVATION AT SPARTA TO BE IDLE THIS YEAR

Col. Richards Has Definite Word That No Regulars or Militia Will Encamp

Camps Robinson and McCoy, near Sparta, scenes of some of the most important military maneuvers ever held in this section of the Northwest, will be void of both Uncle Sam's troops and state militia during the entire summer, according to definite word received by Colonel Ran A. Richards, Sparta.

Colonel Richards stated today that he had received word that no troops would be stationed at the camps this year. The reason given is the mobilization of practically all United States soldiers on the Mexican border. It was hoped that at least two regular batteries would be stationed at the camps.

ers. The survivors, however, were very few.

All of the sailors of the vessels that have passed through the battle waters since the battle agree that in nearly every instance the loss of life with the destruction of the ships must have been nearly total, ships arriving in Copenhagen report.

Crazed from Thirst

Hundreds of the seamen jumped to rafts and were slowly driven insane by the torture of thirst. Some drank salt water, and going stark crazy, fought with weakened companions, jumped into the sea and were drowned.

The dispatches also state that the many large German cruisers which heretofore have been patrolling the Courland coast, (Russia), have been withdrawn.

The admitted German loss in tonnage now is 32,515 tons. The British claim an additional 80,920 tons, which would bring the German total to 113,435. The British admit the loss of 114,100 tons. The eighty thousand tons which the Germans do not admit is made up, say the British, of the battleship Westfalen, the battle cruiser Derfflinger, the battle cruiser Lutzow, a light cruiser, three additional destroyers and one submarine.

Warspite Not Sunk

The admiralty report that the Warspite was not sunk as claimed by the Germans, is confirmed by sea coast reports saying that she limped into port under her own steam late Thursday, the day after the battle.

Sailors said the battle was fought in a sea calm as a mill pond with a mist hanging low, making firing at the longer ranges almost impossible.

QUARTER MILLION MARCH IN CHICAGO "PREPARE" PARADE

CHICAGO, June 5.—A preparedness demonstration equal to New York's gripped Chicago on Saturday. Nearly a quarter of a million Chicago men, women and children, it is estimated, marched in a parade to arouse the nation to preparedness. There were 50,000 marchers from the United Young Men's clubs alone. One feature of the parade was the suffragist section, in which several thousand motorcyclists rode their machines. One hundred and eighty union chauffeurs offered their cars without charge to anyone desiring to take in South Chicago and Gary, Ind., sent 5,000 men.

Illinois National guard regiments marched by special permission of Gov. E. F. Dunne.

Maj. Gen. E. C. Young headed the parade. His chief aid was Col. Milton J. Foreman of the First Illinois cavalry bodies in the National guard. It was estimated there were more than a million spectators.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were declared to have made the best showing for the year in the county, and Mr. and Mrs. Hoeth are among the "state winners" who receive honorable mention and their share of a cash prize fund for efficient agriculture.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones also share in this prize money, as well as receiving the $10 prize as county winners.

the spirit with which it was intended—the spirit of fun, along with the educational value. Some of the students took each little snatch of national music seriously and would immediately rise regardless of the length of the piece. Then the many imitatively followed the few in this matter, and THUS showed their support for ALL the candidates, except poor Henry Ford, who was sent off with 'In the Sweet By and By.'

Against Militarism

We remained seated upon our own initiative, and took no part in the general shouting for militarism, preparedness and jingoism, to all of which we are sincerely opposed as internationalists and believers in the peace doctrines of the Christ who was persecuted for his beliefs.

"That afternoon a certain student from Prescott, Paul Evert, took it upon himself to make a poster, glaring with sentimental appeals to save our country's flag, stating that some of the students of the school refused to rise, and thus in his mind they deliberately insulted our nation's colors.

"We have proof from his own lips that OTHER THAN PATRIOTIC SENTIMENTS induced him to stir up a hatred against us by the use of sentimental appeals to save Old Glory." Some months previously, before any one of us refused to take part in militaristic demonstrations, this man deliberately defaced an offensive poster put up by the Socialist Study club. In the presence of other members of the school he then wrote upon it, 'Why allow this?' and other such matter in the hopes of prejudicing the students against a strictly non-partisan organization for the study of various social reform movements and socialism. He admitted writing the insinuating 'What shall we do about it?' in this present instance. He generally stated in President Cotton's office after the mob demonstration, his extreme prejudice toward socialism, showing no desire to tolerate opinions which happen to differ with his own.

Skemp a Guardsman

"His opportunity came in this last instance to magnify an innocent protest against militarism, into an horrible insult to the flag, and the hue and cry was raised among certain members of the national guard, among whom the most energetic censor appeared in the person of Thomas Skemp (a prominent militiaman and socialist hater).

"The mobbing of two of our number, Paul Schmidt and George Connor, took place the following morning before assembly. Without inquiring into our reasons for our action, we were summarily given TWO MINUTES to go and salute the flag. This we did not do regardless of their threats, for we felt and still feel that we did NOT insult the flag which we all love, but rather we acted as gentlemen and intelligent citizens of America.

"After some half hour's discussion we were finally brought within a hair's breadth of getting their proposed 'soaking,' but we were NOT 'soaked,' for at that moment we gave up reasoning with those who could not reason and defended ourselves from this most unjust attack.

"Before further abuse could be heaped upon us the group was called to the president's office. Discussion of the matter took place pro and con. The meeting was adjourned to allow attendance at assembly, to be taken up again immediately following.

CALL OF "PREPARE" PARADE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—Lack of enthusiasm resulted in calling off the preparedness parade set for June 20. The Security League blames the Merchants' association for not declaring a holiday. The parade originally was set for Memorial day as a reception for Colonel Roosevelt, but it was postponed following a cry of "politics."

Still Kept Seated

"As was expected, after seeing the patriotic leaders confer with faculty members, 'America' was called for by the musical director. Mr. Connor acted as any man should have acted under the circumstances—he remained seated. That the piece was 'staged' has been denied.

"Whether or not the piece was 'staged' TO SEE IF THE BABY WOULD TAKE SUGAR," does not matter here, for after the anarchistic treatment received at the hands of these would-be guardians of our country's flag, Connor would have remained seated at this particular assembly period. Furthermore, in the midst of a trial which was not settled, would any man of courage and belief in freedom to hold opinions of one's own, have acted otherwise?"

"He remained seated to enter protest against the lawlessness and anarchistic way in which Schmidt and himself were handled by a few leather-lunged socialist haters, militiamen and patrioidiotis generally.

Would Wreck Club?

"We repeat, it was with other motives than patriotic motives that these few students created strife in our alma mater. At the meeting in Cotton's room it came out clearly that they were plotting to put the socialist club out of existence. This they abandoned, for no possible connection can be made between our individual policy at militaristic demonstrations, and the impartial study work of the Socialist Study club. In fact, this mob demonstration but more clearly shows a need for just such a club, for it is merely a misunderstanding of socialism and a prejudice taught them, which induced these few to mob two innocent men. Were the reasons known for the socialists' actions and beliefs in regard to militarism, no such foolish demonstration could possibly have had any bad effect.

"We know that all fair-minded, unprejudiced citizens cannot hold us guilty of any intent to do injustice to the flag which we love. Viewed from both sides of this question we are sure no one can connect us with reasons other than purely patriotic in the true sense of the word rather than patriotic in the MILITARISTIC sense of the word.

"It is the duty of socialists of all lands to enter protest in this peaceable and silent way, against the use of national flags and airs to further militaristic propaganda and also where the flag is flaunted to cover up the evil intent of the enemies to society who are ever most loud in their shouts for 'honor to the flag.'

OLD GUARD OFFERS MOOSE DICKER TO NOMINATE HUGHES

banks representatives are playing the vice-presidential game clear across the board, to use race track parlance. The Root lieutenants let it be known that they had been approached on the question of whether the Indiana statesman would be acceptable as a running mate and had acquiesced; the Hughes forces, it was ascertained, had heard a similar scheme with Hughes as the presidential nominee, and it is known that the Weeks campaign managers and even the Roosevelt republican committee had received tentative suggestions to the same effect.

Hughes Round-up Today

This afternoon an attempt was to be made by Frank H. Hitchcock, disavowed Hughes representative here, but nevertheless still plugging away at the Hughes game, to hold a delegate meeting of the Hughes delegates so far rounded up.

The favorite son lieutenants are all hopeful of a lack of understanding between the republicans and progressives over Hughes, which will force Hughes out of the way. But at the same time, they were aware today of the drift of sentiment toward the justice, and of the progressive view that Hughes would be agreeable, if he spoke enthusiastically enough about Americanism and preparedness. Therefore, most of them sought out some way of landing in a soft spot if Hughes finally "gets across."

First of all, they found themselves blocked in any attempt to get an "understanding" as to their future position from Frank Hitchcock. Not being an authorized representative, Hitchcock finds he can not make any promises.

The G. O. P. leaders—Old Guard, allies and near-progressives—all want to retain control of state patronage. They want to have a ticket which will swing through their state tickets. They are not so terribly anxious about the national ticket going through, or about federal patronage. This latter is more or less of a bugbear anyway, since it makes enemies as well as friends.

Taft Men Down on T. R.

A new division within the G. O. P., if that party reunites with the progressives with Roosevelt as the candidate, is threatened by friends of ex-President Taft. These men declare Roosevelt's candidacy will lead the party to defeat any way, and that it would be impossible for them to forget and forgive his course of four years ago by seemingly approving him now.

This new division would seek to win the middle-of-the-road and pacifist republicans, and also to catch the German-American vote.

Hitchcock at noon will issue his first complete statement of claims as to the delegates backing Hughes.

In view of Hitchcock's known conservatism, this announcement was taken by politicians to be a prognostication based upon facts, and, further, an indication that Hitchcock now feels certain of his ground.

Organization leaders continued today to put forward gentle feelers for various less likely candidates, in an effort to attract progressive support. Their main efforts, however, are directed toward decorating the Hughes band wagon to suit progressive tastes. Nowhere is there any organized opposition to Hughes. Gradually the idea is becoming paramount with every class of delegates, barring the radical progressives, that the first consideration for any candidate must be an ability to win.

No Fight Yet

The influence of Hughes sentiment and the justice's phynx-like tactics is reflected by the delegates and old time conventionites. Coincidentally, there is an absence of Rooseveltian strenuousness. As yet there is no real spirit of fight in the air. Compared with the preconvention Mon-

Brandeis Takes Oath of Office Now is Justice

LOUIS D. BRANDEIS

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Louis D. Brandeis, the first Jew to sit on the United States supreme court bench, took the oath of office at noon today.

A distinguished assemblage of public men, including members of both houses of congress, witnessed the administration of the oath.

The ceremony took place after the justices, in full robes, filed into the court chamber to hand down the regular Monday decision.

The oath of obedience to the constitution was administered by Chief Justice White in the robing room, in the presence of all the members of the court. On filing into the court chamber, his commission was read by Clerk James D. Maher, after which Justice White administered the oath. Brandeis' response was: "I, Louis D. Brandeis, do solemnly swear that I will administer justice without respect to persons and do equal right to the poor and to the rich; that I will faithfully and impartially discharge and perform all the duties incumbent on me as associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, according to the best of my abilities and understanding."

The marshal escorted Justice Brandeis to his seat at the extreme left of the chief justice. Members of the court bowed as he passed, and, according to custom, Justice Pitney of New Jersey, his seat mate, shook hands with his new colleague.

IDAHO DELEGATES ARE FOR HUGHES FAILING OF BORAH

Ray Whitla, Le Couer d'Alene, Idaho, newspaper owner and one of the state's delegates to the Chicago national convention, stopped off in La Crosse today to visit his cousin, Attorney Lucien Reid.

"While we are uninstructed," said Mr. Whitla today, "our delegation will undoubtedly cast several votes for Borah, our United States senator. While we have not gotten together on any other candidate, it is possible that most of the delegation will swing to Hughes when it becomes apparent that Senator Borah is without a chance."

La Follette, according to Mr. Whitla, is well thought of in Idaho, while Roosevelt is without much support.

DISTRICT MEETS SET FOR JUNE 15

Local progressive republicans are exhibiting much interest in the assembly conferences to be held June 15, at which time candidates for the assembly and senate will probably be endorsed and delegates named to the state conference of progressives, called for June 22 at Madison, Wis.

The first assembly district conference, in all probability, will be held in La Crosse.

The progressives from the second district, which includes two city wards and all remaining territory in La Crosse, may gather here. Onalaska and West Salem are also bidding for the meeting, however.

CARROLL MEN HERE RAISING BIG FUND

J. G. Gredler, R. A. Carnahan, M. E. Benjamin and E. C. Raue, Waukesha, are in La Crosse today, the guests of Rev. D. C. Jones, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the interests of Carroll college at Waukesha. The men are raising a fund of $400,000 for the college, the only Presbyterian educational institution in Wisconsin. They have secured $140,000. They say that if the sum of $110,000 can be raised in Wisconsin, the balance of the fund will be raised in the east. The amount would place the school, they say, on self-supporting basis. In twelve years the college has grown from three to 300 students.

day of four years ago today's activities are almost funereal.

TRAFFIC RESUMED AFTER BEING OFF SINCE THURSDAY

For the first time since the storm of Thursday night demoralized traffic south of Lynxville, trains were running over the Burlington from the south at midnight, the offices of the road said today. Regular traffic has been resumed, it is announced. Train No. 48 from the south arrived in La Crosse at 12:30, the first train to make the through trip from Savanna for more than three days.

The Dubuque division of the Milwaukee was opened to traffic at seven o'clock this morning, wrecking and track crews having repaired in almost record time the tremendous damage inflicted Thursday night between McGregor and Lansing.

'Twas a bad day for first sackers. Hoblitzell of the Red Sox and Gandil, Indians, were forced to quit when the former was spiked and the latter hit in the head with a pitched ball.

The Browns bunched four hits in one inning for three runs and beat the Athletics. Pitcher Koob of the Browns, quit in the first when he became ill.

The White Sox were extremely batty. They wallowed the Yanks' hurlers for sixteen hits and twelve runs. Everybody swatted except the pitchers.

NELSONS VICTORS IN LONG SCRAP AGAINST HOUSTON

The Nelsons of La Crosse and Houston battled for thirteen innings yesterday at Houston before the game was decided 6 to 5 in favor of the Nelsons. Eugene Fuchs, who hit safely three times out of five times at bat, smashed a hot one at the third baseman which was too hot to handle, and a moment later his brother, John, bunted. Foss fielded badly and both men were safe. Childers hit to short and E. Fuchs scored the winning run on an overthrow to third. Wheaton of Houston hit safely five times out of six times at the plate. Moppy Anderson umpired the mix.

The La Crosse state normal track team won the state inter-normal conference championship on Saturday and romped away with the three cups which were put up for the meet, thereby fulfilling the school's highest expectations. It was the normal's last chance of the year at a state championship and success greater the efforts of Coach Sputh and the ten men composing the victorious team.

The La Crosse team score was 60 1-2 against the 42 1-2 gained by Milwaukee, the closest competitor. The total team thereby gained more points than all the other state normal schools combined. This being the second annual inter-normal conference meet, it was La Crosse's first victory in this field of athletics as the Cream City boys carried off the honors at Whitewater last year.

Grausnick Takes Individual Honors
Harry Grausnick won the individual honors of the day and the cup offered to the winner thereof by taking firsts in the century, the 220, and the broad jump together with a third in the shot put, totalling 17 points as he was also on the relay team. Ryan of La Crosse was conceded the best chance at the individual cup but his teammate sprang the big surprise of the afternoon by defeating him in the 100, 220 and broad jump, in which events Ryan has always been the more successful of the previous meet. Ryan made eleven points. Townley of Milwaukee was Grausnick's closest rival for the honors, the outcome depending on the final field event, the broad jump, which Grausnick won by going one inch over his opponent's mark. Townley also scored eleven points for his team.

Every Local Man Places
Every man on the La Crosse team placed in the meet and there was no event in which at least one local man did not win a position. No courtesy whatever was shown to last year's records, seven set up in 1915 being smashed on Saturday. The previous marks started to fall in the two initial events. Grausnick snatched a fifth of a second off the century and Braun took two-fifths of a second off his former Milwaukee teammate's mark in the high hurdles. Ryan broke his last year's record in the 220, doing it in 24 3-5 while it took him 25 4-5 seconds to do it last year at Whitewater. One of the prettiest races of the day was the 440 in which Ryan made the best time of his career, doing the quarter mile in 53 3-5 and smashing another of his former marks. At the outset of the run Ryan and Renner, La Crosse's two entries in the event, were the last two men. Both began picking up at the end of the first furlong. Eagleburger of Stevens Point led the field up to the last two feet when Ryan, displaying some of the best endurance of the meet, nosed out his man. Renner also sprinted like a demon and went from last to third place in the event, taking the third position easily.

Taylor Sets Shot Record
Captain Taylor of the La Crosse team repeated his usual feat in the meet and broke another record, hurling the shot 38 feet, 1 3-4 inches, 2 feet, 1 1-4 inches farther than Reilly of Stevens Point threw it for first place last season. The work in the pole vault was startling and of the highest calibre for a normal school. Norenberg, the Milwaukee wonder, went over the bar when it was perched 11 feet, 3 3-4 inches in the air. His previous conference record was 10 feet, 10 inches. In the 220 yard hurdles, Felton of Milwaukee also broke a record, cutting off 3-5 of a second and doing the run in 28 2-5 seconds.

Relay Team Stars
Although the result of the meet did not hinge on the outcome of the relay, the event was looked forward to with much interest as the big event of the meet. Every normal in the meet including Milwaukee, Stevens Point, Superior, Whitewater and La Crosse had its team entered. Although Sputh was confident, the persistent rumor as to the strength of Cornael's Stevens Pointers inspired even greater interest in the contest. Despite the fact that finally La Crosse won by big lead, Coach Cornael was confident that his team would clean up La Crosse in another run. He was offered another meeting for the relay teams of the schools but the offer was not accepted. For La Crosse, Grausnick, Gensmann, Renner and Ryan composed the four man team. The first and last men had worked hard all the afternoon but it was Gensmann's first event and Renner had run only the 440 previously. Grausnick ran against first; Bechtold, L. C. second; Brunhart, Mil. third. Time—18 2-5.

CHICAGO, June 4.—In a meeting in which one world's record was broken, one equalled and eight new conference records established, Wisconsin won the sixteenth annual track and field meet of the western conference held yesterday on Northwestern field.

After the meet Liversedge and Nichols of California were disqualified by the committee for competing on an athletic club.

To Carman Smith of Wisconsin went the individual honors. He scored thirteen points by winning the century and furlong and securing second place in the broad jump.

Simpson Breaks World Record
Robert Simpson of the University of Missouri established a new world's record of :14 3-5 in the 120 yard high hurdles. He broke his own conference record of :15, made last year. The world's amateur record was :15, but Simpson ran the distance a week ago in the Missouri Valley conference meet in :14 3-5, the same time as he made Saturday.

Mucks Gets Record
Archie Mucks was another record breaker, when he hurled the discus 155 feet 2 inches, breaking the former mark of 140 feet 2 1/2 inches made by Johnny Garrels of Michigan in 1905.

Binga Dismond, the colored runner from the University of Chicago, won the quarter mile race and established a new conference mark of :47 2-5 for this distance. This mark equals the eastern intercollegiate record made by Ted Meredith of Pennsylvania in the eastern meet last Saturday.

The attendance, about 2,000, was not disappointing, considering the counter attraction of the "Preparedness parade."

Mason Wins Mile Race
Mike Mason of Illinois won the mile run after a blanket finish with Fall of Oberlin. The pair ran stride for stride the entire distance and the Orange and Blue athlete breasted the tape a scant yard in advance of the Buckeye runner. Schardt of Wisconsin was third. Mason covered the distance in 4:20 1-5.

Wisconsin upset the dope when Carman Smith won the 100 yard dash and defeated Hohman of Illinois in a close finish. The Badger got away to a good start and led the entire distance.

D. M. Scott of the Mississippi Aggies, the only southern representative, was another record breaker when he stepped the half mile in 1:53 1-5, clipping two-fifths of a second off the mark established by Roy T. Campbell of Chicago at Urbana in 1915.

Wisconsin went into the lead in the point column by scoring eight points in the 220 yard dash. C. B. Smith of the Badger institution romped across the line to his second victory and tied the conference record of :21 3-5, made by Archie Hahn of Michigan in 1903. Smith got away to a good start and beat Hohman of Illinois in a blanket finish.

With a heave of 47 feet 5 inches H. B. Liversedge of the University of California not only won the shotput but he established a new conference record, breaking the former mark of 47 feet 1/4 inch, held by Ralph Rose of Michigan and made in 1904.

Robert Simpson trotted to his second victory when he won the 220 yard low hurdles in the record breaking time of :23 4-5, which broke his own mark of :24 3-5, made last year.

Results:
Discus throw—Mucks (Wisconsin), first; Husted (Illinois), second; Bachman (Notre Dame), third; Rankin (Ohio), fourth. Distance, 155 feet 2 inches. (New conference record, formerly held by Garrels of Michigan).

One mile run—Mason (Illinois), first; Fall (Oberlin), second; Schardt (Wisconsin), third; Campbell (Purdue), fourth. Time, 4:20 1-5.

RESISTANCE TO DISEASE

Debility is a loss of vitality, not affecting any one part of the body particularly but the system generally. It is dangerous because it reduces the body's resistance to disease.

When debility follows acute diseases, convalescence is slow and the strength does not return as it should. An attack of the grip often results in debility that persists for months. Everybody recognizes that the remedy for debility is to build up the blood because the blood goes to every part of the body and an improvement in its condition is quickly felt throughout the system. The problem in every case is to find something that will enrich the blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills suit most people's need because they are non-alcoholic and they really build up the blood and strengthen the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are useful for growing children and for men and women whose nervous energy has been overdrawn. Try them whenever your blood is thin.

Your druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box, six boxes $2.50 by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Write today for free booklets on the blood and nerves.

each principality reigned a princess in black dress, white collar and cuffs. Never was royalty more becomingly adorned, for Max Bluming, floor manager, knew what he was doing when he picked the prettiest girls in the store for this point of vantage, and beauty always looks well in plain dress.

May Marshall, a tall blonde, had charge of the jet goods. Here also did Mr. Bluming show judgment, and the silver plate was presided over by two pretty little brunettes, who made the plates and baking dishes appear all the more massive and shining beside their dark piquant beauty. Then—and here the manager had undeniably shown his ability as an artist—there was the counter for displaying jewels, from 25 cent bead strings to two-carat, first-water diamonds, and right behind the racks of pearls and trays of rhinestones stood Mary Webster, as wholesome, sweet and fresh as a May morning.

Mary was well, she was just Mary. You looked at her and loved her. Her eyes were, like the country skies she'd left, gray or blue according to her mood, and her skin scorned the cosmetics of the drug department beyond. And you wanted her to try all the vari-colored jewels to see how they would look on her. One invariably thought of pearls—not that her beauty needed softening, but there was something in her skin to the soft, rich lustre of the deep sea gems.

"Good morning, Miss Webster!" Somehow he had learned her name. She nodded brightly, however, as she set a hatpin holder over a freshly-dusted spot and passed the cloth briskly over the top of the glass case.

The man passed up the aisle and disappeared. Evidently he had something to do with the store, but he was not a salesman, for his hours were different from the others. Mary still smiling, was suddenly unpleasantly aware that Mr. Bluming was at the end of the aisle and that he was watching her. She flushed and hastily turned her back.

"It seems to me," she said indignantly, "that I can't breathe any more without that man seeing it. He's always looking at me!" She shivered involuntarily. "One thing sure, if he stays around here talking like he did yesterday and inviting me to dinner I am going to be asked to be changed upstairs. Very good looking that young man was and he has nice eyes and teeth. Sort of makes you think he's always having a little joke of his own."

ITCHING ECZEMA IS A CONSTANT BLOOD CRYThe Blood Reaches Every Part of the Body Every Twelve Seconds.

There are approximately 70,000,000 pores or openings in the skin of a human body. These connect with the blood channels by means of little canals. These canals are sometimes filled with poisons, and thus the skin scales and blisters, becomes red and raw and the skin of man is like so much tissue free. Salves and lotions, plasters, etc., do not reach the source of the trouble. To make the blood pure is the only sensible and scientific method of relief. To make the blood pure you must assist nature in the way she wants to be helped. S. S. S. is the greatest blood purifier because it is a natural one. There is not a mineral of any sort in it. It is purely vegetable in every essence. The blood welcomes S. S. S. and it quickly reaches the seat of the trouble. So great is the fame of this blood remedy that many substitutes trail along in various sections of the country. They all, sooner or later, die a natural death. S. S. S. builds up weak and acid blood, gives prompt relief to almost every case of eczema, winter tetter and other troublesome skin maladies. You owe yourself the duty of trying a bottle of S. S. S. but was suddenly sobered by the appearance of the floor manager just across the counter. His own smile faded as quickly as her's when he noticed the quick change of her expression, but as quickly reappeared.

"Good morning, Miss Mary. Did your mirror tell you how pretty you look today? There's a little curl resting over so lightly on your cheek that I would like to kiss!" He leaned familiarly over the counter and fixed his eyes immovably on her face.

Mary kept busily at her dusting. "And there's a man not a mile away I would like to hit, and I would if my bread and butter didn't depend on it," said Mary under her breath. "Where shall I put these new brooches, Mr. Bluming? Would you suggest a background of blue velvet in the case?"

But he mistook the flush of annoyance for one of pleasure and, disregarding her words, went on: "Blushing is a lost art, Miss Mary. It's very becoming to you. By the way, aren't you sorry you turned down my invitation last night? But there's always another day, and I'm not the kind that takes offense easily. How about tonight?"

"I—I've another engagement," he regarded her steadily. "I don't believe you know another soul in this town," he said slowly, deliberately. "You haven't another engagement?"

His insolence was maddening. "Haven't I?" she flashed. "You know nothing about me. I may be engaged to be married for all you know, Mr. Bluming."

She didn't know why she said it, but the need of a protector, hypothetical though he might be, was imperative, and it came out before she could think.

Mr. Bluming was silent an instant and his smile disappeared. Then he laughed easily, "I don't believe it." But he walked away and left Mary in momentary peace. At the intersection of two aisles, Mary had a glimpse of the young man with the nice eyes, and one who seemed to enjoy a little joke of his own. He looked her way, their eyes met, and—Mr. Bluming was forgotten.

That night, after thinking things over, Mary decided to do something. The manager was right. She knew hardly any one in the big city and certainly no one well enough to go to for advice. So there was no one to rely upon but herself, no one to tell her whether her plan was right or wrong, and it was the best she could think of unsophisticated as she was.

"I must do something to convince that man that I—that there is somebody who cares for me. And I can't do any harm. I can put it back at closing time every night."

So the next morning, while arranging her wares, Mary took from its place in the tray a solitary diamond of carat weight and slipped it onto the third finger of her left hand.

At first, she stood gazing at its changing color rapturously, then, suddenly thoughtful, she started to draw it off. What was she doing? It wasn't the sentiment of wearing what wasn't hers that troubled her, but the false significance of the thing. Was it right to make the world believe she was engaged when she wasn't?

"Good morning, Miss Webster!" Mary hastily covered her hand and returned the greeting. It was the man with the nice eyes. This time he stopped, but hesitated as though the close proximity of so much charm drove what he was going to say out of his head. Mary hastily turned the stone in the ring underneath.

"Is there anything I can show you?" she smiled.

"Well, I guess I can see for myself the way it's spread out," he grinned. "But you can show me anything you like. What's the latest thing in cream jugs?"

"Opposite counter!" laughed Mary.

"That won't do then! Let's see! I'll look at a pin for my grandmother. Something black, I suppose."

"Over in the jets, Miss Marshall!" "Wait a minute. I've changed my mind. Show me those necklaces!" "Lavallieres, certainly."

It took a long time to choose. Finally the young man decided upon one, paid for it, got his change and put the package into his pocket. Then he hummed as his way humming a merry little tune.

Mr. Bluming drew near. Mary hastily turned the stone into view.

"Well, Miss Mary, good-morning. Another day gone, eh? Well, there's always one coming. That's my motto!" Then the ring caught his eye. "Where did you get that?"

"I told you that I—perhaps I was engaged."

"Well, I don't believe it." His eyes glittered. "What if I'd say I knew where you got it, because I saw you take it? Maybe you'll think mond of carat weight and slipped it onto the third finger of her left hand.

better now about dinner. If the management knew"—he stopped.

Mary waited, white to the lips. "Will you come?"

"Then—" he turned. "Charlie, go ask Mr. Taylor to come here, please."

"I've sent for the store detective," he explained. "It's not too late yet, though."

Mary was silent.

Then down the aisle, still humming the merry tune, came the young man who had just purchased the lavalliere.

"You sent for me?" to Bluming. "Yes." And the floor manager explained Mary's crime to the store detective while Mary stood as white and still as a statue of white marble.

Mr. Taylor laughed easily. "Why didn't you tell him the truth, Mary? There was no need of so much secrecy as all that. I just thought we'd keep it as a surprise—that's all. Miss Webster has promised to be my wife," he explained to the non-plused Bluming, "and I told her to pick out the ring she liked best today. Is that satisfactory?"

And noting the steely glitter in the young man's eyes, Mr. Bluming apologized and withdrew.

DRAMATIC FILM

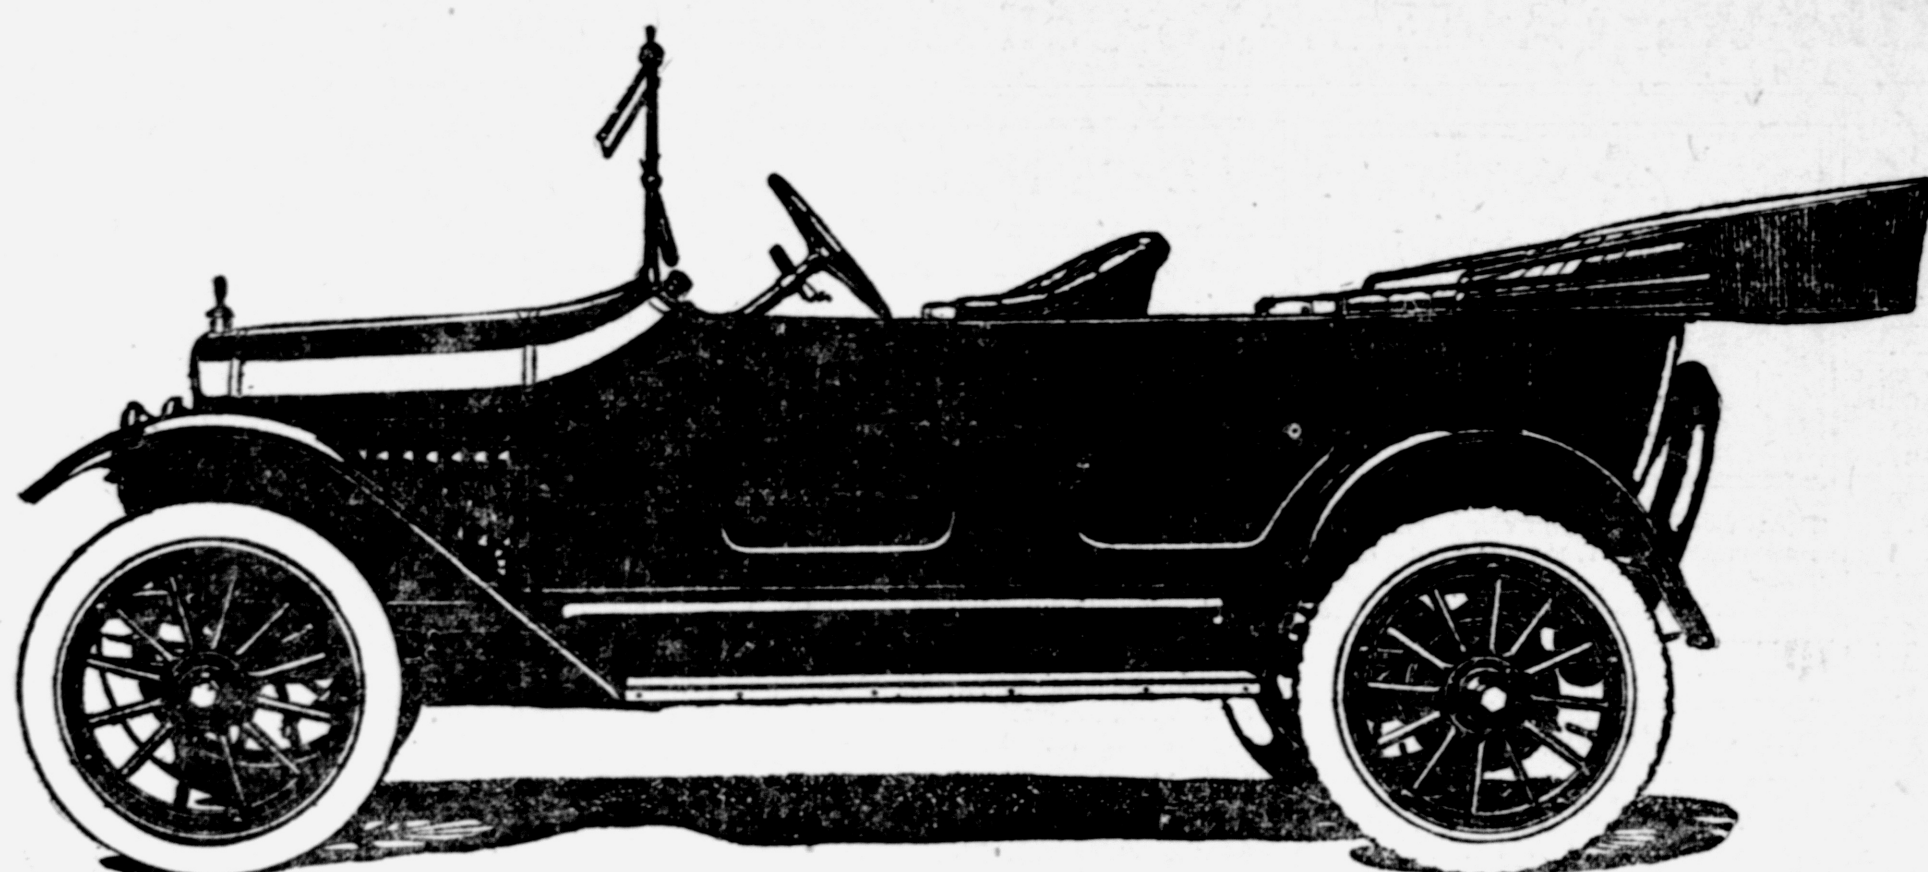

Kitty Gordon, statuesque figure of the stage and dramatic artist renowned, will be the attraction at the Bijou theater this week, when she will be seen in "Her Maternal Right," a World film feature which tells in an exquisite dramatic manner about Jack Treadway, who on the death of his father, finds that he has no funds and secures a position as teller in a bank.

He meets Nina Strang, an actress, and he lavishes money and jewels on her. He is forced to make false entries in his books and is soon indebted to the bank for a considerable sum. Jack breaks with Nina, meets Mary Winslow, and after a short courtship they are married.

Accidentally one day Mary hears about Jack's affair with Nina, and she follows him to Nina's apartment. Through her pluck and courage, Jack is able to secure from Nina the money he so foolishly lavished on her, thus making up the shortage.

C. M. & ST. P. TO SPEND MILLION IN NORTH M'GREGOR

Bloody Run Creek Course to Be Changed to Make Use of Ground; Planned Improvements Large

M'GREGOR, Iowa, June 5.—(Special.)—Extensive improvements by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company are to be made at North McGregor this season. In connection with the roundhouse, car repair shops and switching yards. The company has purchased considerable new land about the yards and already have on the track ready for work three huge concrete mixing machines, a car of tools, machinery and shanties for holding equipment and three cars of cement. Twenty-five car loads of crushed rock have been ordered. The course of Bloody Run creek, it is reported, will be changed and the land filled in, making room for twelve new switch tracks. It is estimated that a million dollars will be expended in improvements. North McGregor is the junction point of the Prairie du Chien, Mississippi River and Iowa and Dubuque divisions of the Milwaukee system. The town has been growing rapidly the last three years. Quite a number of new residences are to be built this season.

Road Boosters Come

Seventy-five auto loads of Waukon business men with their families arrived in McGregor with horns honking, flags waving and pennants bearing the message "Waukon Way Wins." The boosters were met at North McGregor by a delegation of the McGregor Commercial club and escorted to Buell park, where the party spread their picnic lunch, the McGregor women and the local Commercial club serving coffee. A band concert by the McGregor band and a sight-seeing trip about the town and the national park site were features of the afternoon's entertainment.

Snapping Park Views

P. J. Clark, a Dubuque photographer, is working in this vicinity taking views of the national park site for use by the Commercial club. W. F. Bickel is assisting him in choosing the most scenic spots.

Local and Personal

Honorary Commandery of the Masonic lodge of McGregor will observe the fiftieth anniversary of the organization of the order here by special exercises and a banquet Saturday night. Samuel J. Peterson is the only one of the original members who is still residing in McGregor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Widman celebrated their forty-second wedding anniversary with a quiet family gathering Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Snyder of St. Francis, Kansas, are visiting friends and relatives here, arriving in time for the Memorial day exercises. Mr. Snyder has the distinction of having been a member of the company of volunteers which enlisted under Ulysses S. Grant at Grant's home town in Galena in the beginning of the war.

Professor Barry Gilbert, who with his wife and son are spending the summer in McGregor, left for Chicago last night and will attend the republican convention.

A sharp rise in the river at this point has taken place the last three days.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Chapin, who have been spending the winter with their daughter, Miss Florence, in Cedar Rapids, have returned to McGregor and opened up their house for the summer.

BATTLE'S LESSON MEANS EFFORT FOR GREAT SEA FORCE

Two Dreadnaughts, One Battle Cruiser and Flotilla of Dirigibles Added in Senate Body

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Two dreadnaughts, one battle cruiser and a flotilla of dirigibles—the equivalent of Zeppelins—will be added by the senate to the naval program endorsed by the house as the result of lessons from the Skagerrak naval battle. Chairman Tillman of the senate naval committee, said Saturday. Tillman spent all of the forenoon at the navy department discussing the battle with naval experts. When he returned to the capitol he gave the United Press an outline of the changes he plans in the administration bill.

"The first lesson," he said, "is that battle cruisers can't fight dreadnaughts. They aren't intended to. At long range on the open ocean where their speed would make them hard to hit and where they would maneuver as they pleased, they might be successful.

"The second lesson is that the fleet which attacks with powerful ships on the ocean, submarines under the ocean and Zeppelins, or some powerful, speedy airship, can beat the fleet which consists mostly of surface boats.

"Another lesson—unless a ship is as good as the best it isn't any good at all. It's bound to be sunk with all its brave men, its valuable machinery and its fine guns."

Secretary Daniels indicated today it may be necessary for the United States to go into government manufacture of airships, inasmuch as American manufacturers practically refuse navy orders in view of the big profits to be obtained from the allies.

The naval bill passed by the house yesterday carries a building program for next year of five battle cruisers, four scout cruisers, ten destroyers, fifty submarines and 130 aeroplanes, provides for a government armor plate plant, authorizes an increase of nearly 17,000 enlisted men and appropriates a total of $269,900,000.

What Interested Him.

"Did Mr. Chuggins keep a notebook on his travels?" "Yes. But all he wrote in it was the number of blow-outs he had and the amounts of the fines he paid."—Washington Star.

BRITISH LEAD INTO TRAP BY GERMANS

LONDON, June 5.—Editorials in the leading English papers agree that Great Britain has suffered her heaviest sea blow of the war. They are practically unanimous in the opinion, however, that the destruction of the ships will not lessen the effectiveness of the British blockade. Some of the editorials in part are:

The Times—It is clear that we have suffered the heaviest blow at sea we have met with during the war. We engaged, perhaps with over confidence, in a long running fight with ships which were more numerous, stronger, more heavily armed than our cruiser fleet and we suffered heavily. But the event will not impair the effectiveness of our blockade or our ability to uphold the freedom of the sea.

The Morning Post—German heavy metal got British lighter metal at close range and gave it severe punishment. But when our main forces came into action the position was reversed and the German main fleet was driven into port.

There is one thing, however, we have the right to demand in the face of our losses. There must be no more trifling with the powers of the fleet.

The Daily Graphic—The statement published by the admiralty is perhaps the worst piece of news that the government has yet had to communicate to the country.

All we can note on the other side of the account is the recognition by the Germans of the superiority of our main fleet. As soon as our battleships appeared the Germans withdrew to the shelter of the Kiel canal.

Wisdom in Liberty.

The United States is the only country where one can say offensive things about the executive and go unpunished, which may have much to do with the traditional sweetness of the American disposition, fermenting opinions of those in authority being promptly uncorked and as soon forgotten.

LADIES! DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire a more youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.
